C4i Successfully completes MSQ Voice System

C4i has officially completed commissioning of a Voice Communications Command and Control System (VCC&CS) for Maritime Safety Queensland's (MSQ) at their new Vessel Traffic Service (VTS) Centre in Townsville. The recently complete state of the art facility, which houses C4i's SwitchplusIP[™] voice communications system as part of the VTS, is responsible for managing over 2,400km of Queensland (Australia) coastline. Within seven (7) months of being awarded this contract, C4i installed, commissioned and tailored a system to meet the specific requirements of MSQ allowing the team to reach successful conclusion on this project. This final milestone represents the second phase of a two phase system deployment and commissioning.

C4i delivered its Voice over IP (VoIP) technology based SwitchplusIP[™] product providing the capability to interface to legacy systems in both analog and digital domains. C4i and MSQ have tailored this system to provide state of the art command and control capability for communicating with shipping traffic along the Queensland coastline as well as internal telephone communication capabilities. The C4i product enables intelligent edge devices collocated with the remote radios along the coastline to provide full capabilities to the centralised operations centre in Townsville. The delivered system provides MSQ significant growth potential allowing for both current and future technologies to be integrated into the VCC&CS.

MSQ VTSO operates C4i SwitchplusIP[™] in new facility at Townsville.

"C4i have demonstrated the utmost professionalism in delivering our project (in a very short time frame initially) and have demonstrated a willingness to go the extra mile to ensure ultimately a fantastic outcome was achieved" said Paul Colthurst, Project Manager for the Townsville VTS Centre Project.
